Casa per la Pace Milano (House for Peace) is an association of associations, and was born in 2000, from the encounter of several already existing local organizations, with decades of experience in the field of promotion of peace, and non-violent solution of conflicts.

The association promotes Peace as "culture of non-violence", which conceive conflicts as a natural element of social relationships and searches for creative ways to manage them and make them a resource for a changing, as well as to prevent their degeneration.

Casa per la Pace believes that Peace is an issue that regards not only big systems, laws, institutions, but also everyday life, interpersonal relationships, the management of everyday conflicts, the valorization of differences (cultural, ideological, religious, ethnic, sexual) considered also as an instrument of political fight. The Casa per la Pace association sets itself as a place which is open to everybody and which may be a stable and visible point of reference about themes of non-violence, anti-militarism and interculturalism.
